

FCC Commissioners
The Federal Communications Commission RE: Docket 04-435
445 12th Street, SW
Washington, DC 20554

Dear FCC Commissioners ,

I am writing to voice my concerns about the FCC's proposal to relax the restrictions on the use of cell phones on airplanes in flight.

There is no hard evidence that cell phone use doesn't interfere with navigational instruments. The introduction of cell phone use in the cabin will not only increase tension among passengers, it will compromise flight attendants' ability to maintain order in an emergency. Cell phone use could also enable terrorists to coordinate a plan of action more effectively.

I fly two to three times a year on business. Please keep the ban in place. The idea of putting up with passengers next to me talking louder and louder to make sure they are heard infringes on my right to be left alone. I am as busy as the next person. I plan my day so I do not have to overlap while on the flight. I take care of my business before and after the flight.

Consideration for each other on these flights is important. Being cramped in a seat is bad enough. Having to listed to the person next to me say "Can you hear me know?" is too much to ask.

Please leave the current rules in effect.

Sincerely,

Bob Cooper
